“The purest and most thoughtful minds are those which love colour the most”

There are many things that are important to a child’s development. Visual learning is a vital aspect of this and everything from colours influence how a child discovers the surrounding world. To a child, the world is an interesting place, with so much to discover and explore. It is important, therefore, to present children with as many opportunities as possible to learn from the environment around them. On the visual spectrum, colour play a significant role in engaging a child, helping to both inspire them and pique their curiosity, One of the first external factors that a child will react to other than instinctive emotions is colour. One of the most important aspects of a child’s early development is stimulation. A child needs this to let them experience, react and ponder all around them. Keeping this in mind Nursery department is organizing “RED COLOUR” day on 28.04.2016 , Friday with fun filled activities.
